infrastructure are helping to create jobs, build stronger local economies, and lay the foundation for a stronger, more resilient Ontario for generations to come."

OCIF provides funding for local infrastructure projects in communities with populations under 100,000, as well as all rural and northern communities. Funding allocations are based on a formula that takes into account the different needs and economic conditions of each community.

- In 2023, the Ontario government provided $400 million in funding through OCIF to 425 communities.
- The government doubled its annual investment for OCIF to nearly \$2 billion over five years in 2022 to support more local infrastructure projects in small, rural and northern communities.
- As announced in Ontario's 2023 Fall Economic Statement, the government is also protecting communities and unlocking new housing opportunities by investing $200 million over three years to help municipalities repair, rehabilitate and expand critical water, wastewater and stormwater infrastructure. Eligible municipalities will be able to nominate housing-enabling water and wastewater projects in early 2024 through the new Housing-Enabling Water Systems Fund.
- The 2023 Ontario Economic Outlook and Fiscal Review: Building a Strong Ontario Together continues the government's responsible, targeted approach, providing the flexibility needed to help address ongoing economic uncertainty and build critical infrastructure in growing communities, while laying a strong fiscal foundation for future generations.

Grey Bruce Farmers' Week returns for its 58th Consecutive Year in 2024!

This annual conference and tradeshow will be held in-person at the Elmwood Community Centre, 38 Concession Rd 10, Elmwood or can be livestreamed from your home, between January 3rd and 9th 2024.

The conference starts with Beef Day, followed by Dairy, Goat, Sheep, Horse, Ecological and Crops Day. It is a 7-day Agricultural Conference packed with a most impressive and informative line-up of speakers! The coordinators for this event, Grey Ag Services, in conjunction with agricultural commodity leaders from Grey and Bruce Counties, look forward to seeing producers, agribusiness professionals, and industry experts gather together.

They anticipate a stellar event with strong support from sponsors and exhibitors, as well as lots of enthusiasm from the audience. Not to be forgotten, the in-person event also includes an excellent hot roast beef meal! Goat and lamb will be served on their respective days, and pies will line dessert tables once more. Networking is always better when done over dinner!

Back for 2024: Whether audience members purchase tickets for livestreaming or in-person attendance, all will be given access to conference recordings for a thirty-day period post-event. Producers can make use of this 'Encore Access' in order to catch up on pieces that they may have missed, or to recap information that they found especially useful.

In addition to the Encore Access of the live presentations, audience members will also find available thirty 'On Demand' presentations. These are pre-recorded and available for watching on the attendee's own time, from home. Topics covered are broad, and access to all thirty presentations are included with tickets purchases for any day of the week. This hugely increases the content available to the GBFW audience.

Keynote speakers include:

Jan 3rd - Beef Day, Mark Gerber, Technical Sales Specialist from Zinpro Performance Minerals, Minnesota, will deliver Year Round Cow Supplementation Increases Calf Weaning Weights

Jan 4th - Dairy Day, Mark Gerber, Technical Sales Specialist from Zinpro Performance Minerals, Minnesota, will present Dairy Lameness

Jan 5th - Goat Day, Dr. Rosie Busch, Sheep and Goat Extension Veterinarian from the UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine, will share two presentations - Pragmatic Approaches to Disease Control on your Farm; and Healthy Udders & Milk Quality

Jan 6th - Sheep Day, Dr. Mark Young, Innovation Specialist with the Centre for Innovation Excellence in Livestock (CIEL) from the UK, will share two topics - Innovations and Technologies to Support Future Breeding Objectives; and Where do Sheep Fit into Sustainable Food Systems of the Future?

Jan 7th - Horse Day, Lindsey Partridge, Founder of Harmony Horsemanship, will delve into Liberty with Horses

Jan 8th - Ecological Day, Amy Stein will explore Land Access and Linking

Jan 9th - Crops Day, Justin Shepherd, Senior Economist with Farm Credit Canada, will dig into Macroeconomic Uncertainty - What is the Impact on Ontario Agriculture

Many, many more excellent speakers fill out the schedules for each day, as well as panel discussions covering (by order of the day they appear) Keeping Cows on the Ontario Landscape, Hoof Health, Ask a Vet, Accelerated vs. Annual Lambing Systems, Equine Metabolic Syndrome, Land Access and Linking, Living Labs Research and Improving Phosphorus Use with Non-Traditional Fertilizer Sources

Grey Bruce Youth Gather to Tackle Climate Action at Second Annual Youth Conference

On November 21, more than 60 elementary students from schools across Grey and Bruce gathered at the Sydenham Campus in Owen Sound for the second annual Youth Climate Action Conference (YCAC). This one-day conference, organized by The Sustainability Project in partnership with Grey County, set out to engage youth with climate action in our community. Students from grades 6, 7, and 8 represented schools from Lion's Head, Hepworth, Meaford, Walkerton, Holland Chatsworth, Tara, and Owen Sound.

The theme of this year's conference was "multi-solving": working together across sectors to address multiple problems with one initiative. More than 50 volunteers, including local high school and Georgian College students, came out to support the event. Special guests included Saugeen First Nation Knowledge Keeper James Kewaquom, Grey County Warden Brian Milne, Owen Sound Deputy Mayor Scott Greig, as well as several Bluewater School Board superintendents and municipal councillors from Owen Sound and Georgian Bluffs.

The program included a session from two Bagida'waad Alliance Aki Guardians from Fanshawe College who spoke on the impacts of climate change on local biodiversity. Two more Aki Guardians joined a youth panel with two Owen Sound District Secondary School students to empower the youth attendees for personal action. A second youth panel featured six elementary students from the Keppel Sarawak Eco-Team., joined by Georgian Bluffs CAO Niall Loble and Councillor Tobin Day. This panel was moderated by Owen Sound City Councillor Jon Farmer.

Inspired by last year's conference, the Keppel Sarawak Eco-Team has started a school composting program, roadside cleanup in Kemble, and advocated for a sidewalk extension in the Keppel area to create a safer way to walk or bike to school. As one student noted, "We are now a group of 14 students who are very excited to make a difference."

Attendees had the opportunity to learn more about local climate action work by visiting ten booths staffed by local businesses and environmental organizations. For the second half of the day, students split up into groups and dug into developing their own actionable climate projects.

"[Each student] left with a group or individual climate action plan they will hopefully implement in their community," said Hilary Colburn, a local elementary teacher and one of the lead conference organizers with The Sustainability Project. "[In] the workshop, we asked students to identify their passions and environmental problems in their community, and then, asked them how they can use their passion to create a solution to the problem."

Local community volunteers have been matched with each participating school and will help mentor and support the youth in bringing their action projects to fruition. A crowdfunding campaign hosted by the Small Change Fund raised nearly $1,500 to support the conference and these projects. Students will also have an opportunity to present their work at Owen Sound's Earth Day event in April.

Ontario Helping More Students Kick-Start Careers in the Trades

TORONTO — The Ontario government is investing over $62.9 million in two of the province's foundational skilled trades programs to help more than 18,000 young people explore and prepare for life-long careers in a growing industry. The record increase in funding will help train the 100,000 skilled workers needed to build transit, hospitals and at least 1.5 million homes by 2031.

"We need more young people to know university isn't the only path to success in life," said David Piccini, Minister of Labour, Immigration, Training and Skills Development. "Under the leadership of Premier Ford, our government will continue to invest in expanding opportunities for students and young people so everyone in Ontario has a fair shot at a life-changing career."

The Ontario Youth Apprenticeship Program (OYAP) is a specialized high school program that gives students who have completed Grade 10 the chance to explore the trades through cooperative education courses. The government is expanding OYAP with a $21.1 million investment to help more students across the province gain exposure to the skilled trades by accumulating hours toward an apprenticeship while completing their Ontario Secondary School Diploma. The province is also sending 72 OYAP recruiters into more than 800 secondary schools to compete directly with colleges and universities.

"Ontario's plan to go back to basics includes a renewed focus on hands-on learning that integrates learning with working in the skilled trades," said Stephen Lecce, Minister of Education. "This significant increase in pre-apprenticeships, the Ontario Youth Apprenticeship Program and the deployment of recruiters into 800 high schools across Ontario will help students jump-start their careers in the skilled trades and access good-paying jobs in communities small and large."

The government is also investing $41.8 million to launch roughly 100 pre-apprenticeship training projects around the province to help young people get first-hand experience working in trades that can pay six figures such as welding, electrical and arboriculture. Pre-apprenticeship training is free for participants while costs for textbooks, safety equipment and tools are all covered. Courses can last up to 52 weeks and include an 8–12-week paid work placement with a local employer.

This announcement was made at the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) Local 353 in Toronto. With a $1.3 million investment from the Skills Development Fund Training Stream, IBEW has launched a free project to prepare 48 people from underrepresented groups as electricians in the Greater Toronto Area. The program includes a free 15-week bootcamp on essential electrical skills and health and safety, along with a 10-week paid job placement with a local employer and a pathway to an apprenticeship.

As a mentorship organization, BBBSGBWS believes in investing in the power and potential of all youth and our mentorship programs do just that. With both in-school and community-based programs, we ensure children and youth are supported to overcome adversities and that both youth and families have a place to turn all year long.

Western Simcoe has three (3) simple ways individuals and businesses can become a part of this vital work:

WestJet Raffle Tickets

Each year WestJet generously donates one (1) roundtrip flight for two (2) guests to any regularly scheduled WestJet destination! Since this fundraiser allows us to raise funds with minimal overhead costs, each raffle ticket purchased directly supports our mentoring programs! In the spirit of 'adventure meets philanthropy', purchase some tickets and see if your lucky number is called! The winner will be announced Dec. 18th. Tickets can be purchased online until then.

Monetary Donations

Donations go towards supporting local youth and families all year long! And we have the stats to show how important our mentorship programs are. Youth in our programs are 17% more likely to be gainfully employed and earning 13% more on average. They are also 50% more likely to volunteer and 13% more likely to give to charity. Together we can create flourishing communities! Donations can be provided online or in person.

Food Focused Gift Cards

We will offer these to local families that would immensely benefit from the contributions. Did you know that 1 in 5 people in Grey Bruce experience food insecurity and BBBS youth and families are no different. Gift cards can be dropped off at the Harmony Centre Owen Sound office or pick-ups can be arranged.

Your donations, purchase of WestJet tickets, and willingness to spread the word makes all the difference! The possibilities you see are the ones we're creating together. Thank you for investing in our community.
