As part of its budget writing process, the Government will consider the committee's report and recommendations. Although the government is not obligated to act on the committee's recommendations, the pre-budget consultations provide an opportunity for parliamentary input into the budget planning process, as well as public discussion and debate regarding the government's spending and taxation priorities.

MARCH

The Minister of Finance presents the government's budget, which outlines the government's taxation and spending priorities for the coming fiscal year.

SPRING

TABLING OF DOCUMENTS, REVIEW AND VOTES

The government tables its main estimates for the coming fiscal year (the government's spending plans) and its departmental plans (which set out the results that departments intend to achieve). The House of Commons votes and approves the Appropriation Bill (spending funds). The Bill is then sent to the Senate for review and approval.

GOVERNMENT PROVIDES UPDATES

The Minister of Finance presents an economic and fiscal update, which provides mid-year information on the country's economic growth and the state of the government's finances.

Federal Budget 2024

4 easy steps to submit your pre-budget consultation brief

Version française

The federal government has launched its pre-budget consultations process and is inviting Canadians to participate by submitting a brief. A brief is a simple, direct document that includes your few recommendations for the upcoming budget.

These consultations will be considered by the Standing Committee on Finance. From there, the Committee will make recommendations for the Minister of Finance in preparation of the 2024 federal budget. It's a great opportunity for all Canadians to participate in the democratic process!

The format: Submissions must be no longer than 2,000 words. Brief should follow this template.

The deadline: Friday, August 4, 2023 at 11:59 p.m. EST.

The process:

STEP 1	Draft your brief. To do so, we encourage you to review the briefs submitted in advance of the 2023 Federal Budget .
STEP 2	Format your brief using the federal government template (included in our toolkit ).
STEP 3	Review your brief. Ensure it: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>△ Provides context. Who are you, what do you do, and why? See this submission as a way to introduce the government to your organization and cause. Tell the government why they should be concerned about the issue, and convince them to apply your solutions.</li><li>△ Is clear and concise. Brevity is important. The committee has to read hundreds, make your brief stand out. Formulate clear and direct policy recommendations.</li><li>△ Puts yourself in the government's shoes. Understand what they want to accomplish and pitch your request in a way that will help them achieve their goals.</li><li>△ Is backed by data (quantitative &amp; qualitative). The government likes evidence-based policy, so support your recommendations as much as you're able to. Include examples and data to illustrate the problems and how your recommendations will lend solutions.</li></ul>
STEP 4	Submit your brief through the committee's website .
NEXT STEPS	After you send in your submission, you can also: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>△ Share a social media post and tag your MP;</li><li>△ Write a newsletter piece about your recommendations for your supporters;</li><li>△ Publish the entire submission on your website and highlight it via your communications vehicles and social media;</li><li>△ Reach out to your Member of Parliament to share your submission and request a meeting to discuss your priorities. Remember, your MP is your ally!</li></ul>

Ontario Reducing Wait Times in Emergency Departments

$44 million investment helping people get faster access to care in EDs across the province

OTTAWA — The Ontario government is investing an additional $44 million this year in 165 high volume and smaller emergency departments to reduce wait times and provide people with faster and easier access to timely care close to home.

This funding is in addition to the $90 million Ontario invests each year to reward emergency departments that put in place innovative solutions to reduce ED wait times including hiring additional health care staff, accessing more transportation to help transfer medically stable patients out of emergency departments, and creating new beds.

“When someone experiences a medical emergency, it is vital that they get the urgent attention they need quickly,” said Sylvia Jones, Deputy Premier and Minister of Health. “By offering more funding for hospitals who show the greatest success in reducing wait times in their emergency departments, we are providing more support for them to deliver faster emergency care to the communities they serve.”

Hospitals have the flexibility to decide how to spend this funding on local solutions that will help people receive care faster and reduce their length of stay in an emergency department. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, this annual funding helped emergency departments connect people to care sooner by decreasing the average time spent in emergency departments by 12.2 per cent.

To continue building on this success, Ontario is investing an additional $29 million this year to 75 high volume emergency departments across the province to increase their capacity to help more patients and reduce the amount of time people have to wait to access care.

An additional $15 million will also expand the number of smaller hospitals now eligible to receive this funding. This will help support up to 90 hospitals across the province that provide emergency care to fewer than 30,000 patients a year, so they can hire and retain the staff they need to keep their emergency departments open.

With Your Health: A Plan for Connected and Convenient Care, the province is continuing to find innovative ways to reduce wait times and make it faster and easier for Ontarians to access timely emergency care, closer to home.

Introducing Canada.ca/rural

The Centre for Rural Economic Development has recently launched a redesigned website – canada.ca/rural

The new interactive website responds directly to feedback gathered from rural stakeholders across Canada and aims to guide rural Canadians to the programs, services and resources on the Government of Canada programs most relevant to their diverse and unique needs.

The new site provides program information to address a wide range of subject matters, including: connectivity, capacity building, housing, labour and skills development, as well as climate change mitigation and adaptation.

Visitors are also able to sort and filter programs and services into those eligible for individuals and families, rural businesses or rural communities so they can easily find the information most relevant to their needs.

We are also excited about the section on feature stories from rural Canada, which shares success stories about how rural Canada took action to address their key barriers to economic growth and sustainability. If you have a story to share about how federal funding has benefitted a rural Canadian community, it can be sent to rural@ised-isde.gc.ca.

BVO 40th Anniversary Awards: Rewarding “Good Things”

On the occasion of our 40th Anniversary in 2023, BVO is pleased to announce its “Making Good Things Happen” awards program to recognize individuals or groups who have made a positive impact in The Blue Mountains. BVO will be presenting four $1,000 awards, one for each decade of our 40 years, at our 2023 AGM in 2024.

We’re looking for individuals or groups whose contributions have made a recognizable and positive impact in 2023. The impact may be on our environment, a benefit to children, families, seniors, youth or individuals, something new in our community, or an improvement on something that already exists. (Please note that, although BVO applauds all volunteering efforts, this is not an award for volunteering.)

Anyone or any group wishing to be considered for an award can either be nominated or apply themselves. Nominations or applications must be submitted to BVO by January 31, 2024.

History of Cross Atlantic Communication Day

On July 27th, Cross Atlantic Communication Day commemorates the invention of transatlantic communication telegraph cables. In 1866, a telegraph cable was erected across the Atlantic Ocean to connect Europe and North America, a watershed moment in history. It took a total of 12 years to finish the project. It began in 1854 and was completed on July 27, 1866. The project necessitated many ships, trials, failures, and a large sum of money to lay the cables. It was first attempted to establish a 1,700-mile line between Newfoundland and Ireland in 1857. The project was shelved after the cable repeatedly broke. The project's success was a big win for many individuals.

The Cross Atlantic communication telegraph wires were built by many brilliant brains, making life easier for everyone. With faster communication came new opportunities for people around the world. Communication has continued to develop and improve over time. The internet has made messaging, phone calls, and video calls an instant commodity. Communication across the Atlantic is now swift and easy. Without giving it much thought, people can communicate with other people in different parts of the world. This ease of communication has made business and other relationships a lot easier.

Cross Atlantic Communication Day reminds us of the fantastic benefits we enjoy from improved communication technology.

Ontario Launching Mobile Skilled Trades Classrooms

TORONTO — The Ontario government is investing $5.4 million to design and build three mobile tech classrooms that will travel across the province and teach students and young people about the skilled trades. The classrooms, built and operated by Skills Ontario, will feature hands-on learning stations and simulators for electrical systems, welding, crane operation, auto-painting, tire and brake work, heavy machinery and more. Over three years, they will let nearly half a million people explore the skilled trades and will help tackle the labour shortage the province faces in a critical industry.

“By 2025, one in five jobs in Ontario will be in the skilled trades. These are rewarding, well-paying careers that you can build a family and a life around,” said Monte McNaughton, Minister of Labour, Immigration, Training and Skills Development. “That’s why our government will continue to invest in cutting-edge programs that give students the chance to experience the 144 trades and life-changing opportunities available to them.”

“Since rolling out our first Trades & Tech truck last year, our mobile classroom has provided thousands of students with hands-on learning experiences,” said Ian Howcroft, CEO of Skills Ontario. “This program ignites an awareness of opportunities in the skilled trades and tech field that inspires more young people to pursue these careers. We want to thank and recognize Minister McNaughton and Premier Ford for the leadership and investments they have provided to build the skilled workforce of tomorrow.”

Last month, the government announced apprenticeship registrations increased by 24 per cent in the last year – from 21,971 to 27,319 – as more people decide to pursue rewarding, well-paying careers in the industry. This increase, including a 28 per cent jump among women, follows more than $1 billion in investment in the skilled trades over three years, along with the launch of the new government agency, Skilled Trades Ontario.

“I recently announced that starting in September of 2024, all high school students will take at least one technology education course to create pathways to exciting jobs of the future,” said Stephen Lecce, Minister of Education. “Ontario’s new mobile tech classroom will support 150,000 students every year in learning those critical skills that will set them up for success in a good-paying job.”

The province helped launch the Trades & Tech Truck pilot program in 2022. The first truck reached over 40,000 students and young people, visiting more than 50 events across the province.

This project is funded through the government’s Skills Development Fund, an over $700 million initiative, which supports ground-breaking programs that connect jobseekers with the skills and training they need to find well-paying careers close to home.

Quick Facts

- The new mobile classrooms will be fully operational by the summer of 2024 and will accommodate 150,000 visitors a year.
- 1.3 million people are working in skilled trades-related occupations in Ontario.
- In 2021, about one in three workers in Ontario with an apprenticeship or trade certificate were aged 55 or over and nearing retirement.
- In total, there were 93,866 apprentices active in Ontario as of July 2023.
- Through its first three funding rounds, the Skills Development Fund has supported 596 projects, to help over half a million people around the province take the next step in their careers.
- The Ontario government launched the new $224 million capital stream for the Skills Development Fund on June 30 to support the building of new training centres and the renovation or expansion of existing ones.
- Ontario’s Skills Development Fund is supported through labour market transfer agreements between the Government of Canada and the Government of Ontario.

A Dream Fulfilled at the Inglis Falls Arboretum!

The Inglis Falls Arboretum Alliance (IFAA), a volunteer committee of Grey Sauble Conservation Authority (GSCA) who help enhance and maintain the Inglis Falls Arboretum, welcomed guests and the public to a special event on Tuesday to celebrate the completion of the "Fulfilling the Dream" sign project. This project was made possible through funding from the Toronto Dominion Friends of the Environment Foundation and fulfilled a 60-year-old dream of having a fully labelled arboretum that showcases the identification of trees found locally and from around the world. Visitors to the Arboretum can now identify and learn about the species of trees and shrubs from their labels while enjoying the 2.5 kilometres of trails that traverse this beautiful property!

Nancy Brown, Chair of the IFAA, shared historical milestones with event attendees and acknowledged the development of "great ideas" and collaboration that contributed to the extensive Arboretum that exists today. When asked what this special day meant to her, Brown shared: "It was an honour for me to stand and speak among my peers of like-minded individuals who love trees, respect the environment and care about the future. The Inglis Falls Arboretum Alliance is proud to showcase the new educational portion of the collection of woody plants in the arboretum. Each one of 165 different species is identified on 280 informational mounted signs throughout the 27 acres and trails around the Grey Sauble Conservation Authority Administration Centre. The funding through Toronto Dominion Friends of the Environment and the Grey Sauble Conservation Foundation along with the support of GSCA staff and many other local community groups has made this dream come true for the Inglis Falls Arboretum Alliance."

The Inglis Falls Arboretum, located at 237897 Inglis Falls Road in Owen Sound, is a popular destination for nature appreciation, dog walking, and those looking for a leisurely hike. GSCA and the IFAA would like to remind visitors that while dogs are always welcome at the Arboretum, they must be on a physical leash for their safety, the safety of others, and the ecological health of this property.

Wolf J McFarlane is a Canadian multi-disciplinary music artist extraordinaire, widely known for his clever, outside-the-box, and contemporary artistic expressions. With his venture into a solo music career in 2008, Wolf quickly climbed the music charts to become a household name and a Toronto staple in the alternative hip-hop and R&B music scene.

KAJÉ
4:50PM - 5:30PM

Northern Star Soul Diva singer, songwriter Kaje is an upcoming artist that is killing the urban scene! Kaje has already worked with Grammy nominated producers such as Sauce Boy, Bl Brown and A&B. Kaje just released her 2nd single "Let You Go" February of this year. She is extremely passionate about producing her own music. Kaje sings about friendships, love, betrayal and her own personal life experiences.

KAIRO McLEAN
5:50PM - 6:40PM

15-year-old Kairo McLean may seem like your typical middle schooler, but Kairo is far from average. In 2022 Kairo's debut EP Easy Flow received the 2022 JUNO award for Reggae Recording of the Year making him the youngest person in JUNO history to receive the recognition. Growing up in a musical family, reggae music was a major part of Kairo's upbringing and home life. At just three years old, Kairo picked up the drums, showcasing his undeniable aptitude for music. By age six, he had already expanded his musical talents, playing acoustic guitar and performing professionally at local reggae music festivals.

LIBERTY SILVER
7:00PM - 7:45PM

Liberty Silver is the first black woman to receive a Juno Award. Her "Gimme" award collaboration was in association with her performance on the single "Rock Me Not Enough", that raised funds for relief of the famine in Ethiopia. Liberty Silver has performed throughout the stage with prominent and influential figures, that include: US President Barack Obama, Bob Marley (Madison Square Gardens), Miya Angelou, Arch Bishop Desmond Tutu, Celine Dion, The Temptations, Oscar Peterson, Naselle Cole, Gladys Knight, and more!

KIRK DIAMOND & The Movement Of Ahryel
8:30PM - 10:00PM

Juno Award Winner Kirk Diamond is singer, songwriter, producer and social activist in his own right. Diamond was featured on CBC Music's 10 Canadian Reggae Artists You Need To Hear and nominated for a JUNO Award for Best Reggae Recording for his single. Despite the omitted recognitions and critical distinctions, Kirk still stays humbled and continues to push the influence of reggae music internationally, while bringing about social change through his music.
