

Ministry of Transportation Announces Environmental Assessment Regarding Highway 26 Intersection Improvements

The Town of The Blue Mountains would like to inform the public of a Provincial Transportation Project that has been recently announced focusing on multiple locations on Highway 26 within the Town's boundaries.

The Ontario Ministry of Transportation has retained Egis to undertake the Detail Design and Class Environmental Assessment Study for intersection improvements at Highway 26 and Grey Road 2, and at Highway 26 and Grey Road 21. The study also includes rehabilitation of Culvert 473 on Highway 26 between Hoover Lane and Camperdown Road, and illumination of the intersection at Highway 26 and Grey Road 113/10th Line.

The province has published a dedicated project website regarding the study. The website contains an overview of the project, an outline of the study process, relevant reports and more information about how the public can be involved. The website also includes a link to register for the Ministry's project email list.

If members of the public wish to obtain additional information, or have questions or comments regarding the Study, they are asked to contact one of the following Project Team members by August 19, 2024. A general contact form is also available on the project website.

An Online Public Information Centre is scheduled for Fall 2024 where more information will be provided.

Open Fields 2024

In early 2024, the Town was successful in an application for the Rural Economic Development Program (RED) to support funding to host a community farm/agriculture familiarization tour. The "Open Fields" project, which held its first successful event in 2023 and drew over 2,000 visitors to five local farms, to provide the public with a behind the scenes look into agriculture practices in the region.

Working with the Agricultural Advisory Committee, the Town has taken various actions to increase public awareness of common agricultural practices and the importance to support the Agri food value chain in the region. Through the first "Open Fields" event, newsletters and business spotlights, the Town has provided helpful information to the public.

Continuing "Open Fields" is a great opportunity to expand this initiative and to invite the public onto local farms to learn about their operations, to experience their products and to ask questions.

By executing the agreement, the Town will secure $14,750 in funding towards the project cost of $29,500.

Ontario Exploring More Ways to Expand Role of Pharmacists

Pharmacies provided over 1 million assessments for common ailments since last year, providing even more convenient care closer to home

TORONTO — The Ontario government is looking at additional innovative and creative ways to make pharmacies a one-stop-shop for people to conveniently connect to care, close to home by further expanding the ability of pharmacists to provide care. Starting today, the government is consulting with its partners on further expanding the ability of pharmacists to provide care by treating additional common ailments, administering more vaccines, and performing more point-of-care testing.

“Our government is continuing to expand our bold and innovative plan to make it easier for people to connect to the care they need, close to home,” said Sylvia Jones, Deputy Premier and Minister of Health. “Pharmacist prescribing has been a huge success in Ontario, and we are excited to work with our partners to help explore more opportunities to leverage pharmacies to connect people to care in Ontario, no matter where they live.”

Since January 2023, Ontario's pharmacies have provided more than 1 million assessments to treat and prescribe for 19 common ailments such as cold sores, pink eye, insect bites and urinary tract infections. Over 4,600 pharmacies, or 99 per cent of all Ontario pharmacies, are now participating in the program, connecting people to care in every corner of the province.

Building on this success, Ontario is consulting on more ways to leverage the skills and expertise of pharmacists to continue making pharmacies a one-stop-shop for more convenient care closer to home, including:

- treating and prescribing for 14 additional common ailments, such as sore throat, calluses and corns, mild headaches, shingles, and minor sleep disorders including insomnia
- ordering specific laboratory tests and performing additional point-of-care tests such as strep throat testing, to make it faster and easier to assess and treat common ailments
- administering additional publicly funded vaccines at pharmacies, including Tetanus, Diphtheria, Pneumococcal, and Shingles to increase access to care and save people a visit to the doctor's office
- allowing pharmacy technicians to administer additional vaccines, such as Hepatitis A and B, Rabies, Meningococcal, and Human Papillomavirus
- identifying barriers in hospital settings that limit pharmacists from ordering certain laboratory and point-of-care tests, to make it easier for people to connect to care and reduce burden on nurses and doctors
- improving the MedsCheck program to support health outcomes and reduce unnecessary service duplication and administrative red tape, while continuing to protect patient choice.

In addition to providing more convenience, allowing pharmacists to connect people with more care options at their local pharmacy will also give family doctors more time to help people with more complex needs. As with visiting a family physician or walk-in clinic, Ontarians can receive a prescription from a pharmacist for common ailments with just their Ontario health card. The cost of the medication being prescribed will continue to be paid for by people directly or through their drug benefits plan.

As part of Your Health: A Plan for Connected and Convenient Care, the government is strengthening all aspects of the health care system, including making it easier for highly skilled, regulated health care professionals, like pharmacists to work to the full extent of their training and expertise to provide people more connected and convenient care.

Multi-Use Recreation Feasibility Assessment

Joint Multi-Use Recreation Feasibility Assessment

Following completion of the 2021 Leisure Activities Plan, the Town of The Blue Mountains approved funding toward the delivery of a feasibility assessment regarding a multi-use recreation facility. The Town of Collingwood had also approved funding toward the delivery of a feasibility assessment through its 2019 Parks, Recreation and Culture Master Plan. Both Plans indicated that there were opportunities to utilize a regional approach to increase efficiency, reduce redundancy and provide accurate delivery of services throughout a future timeframe.

The feasibility assessment will confirm community needs for both the current timeframe as well as a defined future scope. This assessment will also review business alternatives to determine the most effective means of delivering services. Tools that will be used are expected to be an analysis of current strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats, in addition to community consultation, research of best practices, planning and forecasting tools, and the contextual review and application of other municipal plans and documents. The goal is to establish a better understanding of the needs of both communities, not to determine what a single facility will look like or where it will be located. The results are expected to provide Council with the information required to make a "go/no-go" decision on further progressing plans that could lead to a major capital project.

The model of integrating library services into a community centre has proven effective in several municipalities across the province. Therefore, as a measure of efficiency and timing opportunity, The Collingwood Library and The Blue Mountains Public Library will also be included as key contributors through the assessment.

Why Now?

Funding for individual feasibility studies was recommended through both The Blue Mountains' 2021 Leisure Activities Plan and the Town of Collingwood's 2019 Parks Recreation and Culture Master Plan. The municipalities have both received Council consent to work on a joint feasibility plan to investigate a regional approach.

Governments Expanding Mental Health Supports for Farm Workers <https://farmerwellnessinitiative.ca>

The governments of Canada and Ontario are investing up to $538,000 through the Sustainable Canadian Agricultural Partnership (Sustainable CAP) to expand the Farmer Wellness Initiative to Ontario farm workers. Of that total, nearly $178,000 will be dedicated to supporting the delivery of services in Spanish.

Delivered by Agriculture Wellness Ontario, a suite of free programming managed by the Canadian Mental Health Association, Ontario Division, the Farmer Wellness Initiative provides farmers, farm workers and their family members in Ontario with unlimited access to a free, 24/7 phone line that connects them to tailored mental health counselling. Earlier this year, the line expanded to include farm workers, and now the expansion includes the delivery of mental health services in Spanish to better serve international agricultural workers.

Services offered through the 24/7 phone line include crisis counselling, risk assessments, and face-to-face, phone or video sessions with a counsellor. 1-866-267-6255

Today's action builds on a series of recently launched and expanded free mental health supports for workers in the farming sector. It also supports the priorities of the Ontario government's Grow Ontario Strategy, which include strengthening the stability of our agri-food supply chain and attracting and growing local agri-food talent.

Sustainable CAP is a five-year (2023-2028), $3.5-billion investment by federal, provincial and territorial governments to strengthen the competitiveness, innovation, and resiliency of Canada's agriculture, agri-food and agri-based products sector. This includes $1 billion in federal programs and activities and a $2.5 billion commitment that is cost-shared 60 per cent federally and 40 per cent provincially/territorially for programs designed and delivered by the provinces and territories.

- In total, the governments of Canada and Ontario have invested $5,306,244 into the initiative.
- With this new funding, farm workers can now access services in Spanish in addition to English and French 1-866-267-6255.
- According to a 2021 study conducted by the University of Guelph, 76 per cent of farmers experience moderate or high stress.
- Sustainable CAP will help enable the goals outlined in Ontario's Grow Ontario Strategy, which includes increasing total agri-food sector employment by 10 per cent by 2032.

Shop. Cook. Dine.
Celebrate. Canadian.
August 3, 2024

<https://www.fooddaycanada.ca> Food Day Canada engages and inspires everyone to shop, cook & dine Canadian. It's a chance for all Canadians to join hands in one massive celebration in praise of our farmers and fishers, our chefs and researchers and, above all, our home cooks.

Food Day Canada is a grassroots movement that comes to life with thousands of individuals and partners from coast to coast to coast each year. It's free and inclusive, and meant for all who believe in the vision to engage and inspire everyone to shop, cook & dine Canadian.

Food Day Canada was originally created as the World's Longest Barbecue, by Anita Stewart, her family and a number of pioneering supporters, in an effort to show support for Canada's beef farmers and ranchers.

On July 30, Elora's Longest BBQ will launch Food Day Canada, which falls on Aug. 3 this year. It's more than gastronomical wizardry and excellence. "It's about fostering community, supporting local businesses and celebrating our vibrant food culture," said Food Day Canada board director Jeff Stewart.

"Good Canadian food isn't meant to be just for a place of privilege. It's meant to be a place for the community."

Stewart is the son of the late Anita Stewart, food historian, culinary journalist, cookbook author, food advocate, University of Guelph food laureate, member of the Order of Canada and long-time resident of Elora. Anita launched the "World's Longest Barbecue" 21 years ago in response to a national crisis – bovine spongiform encephalopathy or "mad cow disease" – that devastated beef farmers in Canada. "It evolved into what we now know as Food Day Canada," Stewart said.

So you want to Shop Like A Canadian. Me, too.

by Anita Stewart, C.M., Food Day Canada Founder, who was a passionate advocate for sourcing Canadian ingredients.

For a whole lot of reasons. Local food is better for the planet and keeping our producers and processors in business and reviving the entire sector which, for a number of years, seemed to have been on life support. Besides, using local ingredients is actually a whole lot of fun.

It whets our culinary curiosity and defines who we are as Canadians.
We are very proud of those culinary nationalists who care enough to risk being in the food business either as a grower, a processor or as a manufacturer. We are Putting Canada on the Menu! Before beginning, we needed to find out about the rules around labeling.
There are dozens, both at the Federal and Provincial levels. It's like sifting wheat from chaff to find out how to read them. But I think we've nailed it. Maybe not perfectly. But that's where you come in.
We look forward to your feedback. Product of Canada is the one that holds the most weight! It's grown and processed in Canada. This is why this list is such fun ... and why it's so important.

According to the Canadian Food Inspection Agency, a "Product of Canada" label means that all, or nearly all, of the food, processing and labour used to make the food is Canadian. These foods were 1/18 grown or raised by Canadian farmers prepared and packaged by Canadian food companies. Note that a food can still be labeled "Product of Canada" if it contains small amounts of imported food, such as spices, food additives, vitamins, and flavourings. Made in Canada is where it could get confusing and unless you carry a magnifying glass to the grocery store, a few manufacturers would like to keep it that way.

But it's also where makers of gorgeous jams, for instance, cannot call what they create Product of Canada because the bulk of the preserve is sugar from outside the country. The chaff-sifting continued.

The words "Made in Canada from domestic and imported ingredients" on a food label mean that

- a Canadian company was involved in some of the preparation of the food and,
- it contains some food grown by Canadian farmers, and some food that's been imported.

The words "Made in Canada from imported ingredients" on a food label means that a Canadian company was involved in some of the preparation of the food; and the contents of the food were imported.

A Maple Leaf on the Label – This one really bugs me. It is often a decoration more than an origin stamp. Check the "Made in" status. This is what we call Canadawashing. Sure was a couple of years ago with the ketchup debacle and it's still going on. Honey with maple leaves emblazoned imported from Asia spring to mind first.

Now what's "Local" mean on a label? We think it's pretty intuitive but the CFIA has had to adopt a policy, albeit interim, on Local Food Claims which recognizes "local" as food produced in the province or territory in which it is sold, or food sold across provincial borders within 50 km of the originating province or territory.
